

MANY PEOPLE INJURED IN WINNIPEG RIOTS

Two Cars Wrecked, Twelve Injured and Thirty Seven Rioters in Jail--Militia Called Out to Preserve Order

Winnipeg, Mar. 30.—The first street railway strike has resulted in one of the most riotous periods in the city's history. There is not a street car running and the Winnipeg Street Railway Co. is depending on the good offices of the militia to help it out of a serious predicament. Within four hours after the company made its first effort to operate the cars without the services of the men who had decided to quit work, the entire system was tied up in a hard knot and not a car could be moved. The result of the first day's work on the part of the strikers has been the destruction of thousands of dollars worth of the company's property, the successful culmination of an effort to keep the street cars from operating and the evident enlistment of the sympathies of three quarters of Winnipeg's population in their favor. Thousands of people paraded the streets wearing in their hats a printed motto "We walk," and, anxious to do as calculated to gain a temporary advantage for the striking employees. Whether the result of the first day's work will assist the cause remains to be seen for there are many who believe that the scenes of violence enacted in Winnipeg's streets on the initiation of labor hostilities will be the undoing of the wage earners cause and enlist the sympathies of the best class of the residents in favor of the employers. Between McDermott and Higgins avenues on Main street was the storm centre. In a clash between the motormen and conductors and the railway company, the first blood goes to the men as they succeeded in keeping the public from being served with a car service. When the company attempted to run cars men and sympathizers armed with stones and missiles of every description, attacked the cars, cut the ropes which held the poles on the wires and immediately had control of the situation. At the subway two cars coming from opposite directions on the same track were thus robbed of their controlling gear and allowed to collide in the dark passages of the subway, wrecking both cars. They lay locked together in the subway hollow from noon till five o'clock in the evening when rescue cars loaded with policemen were taken down Main street, and towed the wrecks to the barns. By two o'clock seven of the twelve cars which the company attempted to keep in commission had been rendered helpless and were abandoned. Six people were injured and taken to hospital, having been hit with stones and bricks while about a dozen strike breakers were taken to the police station for protection from the fury of the mob. Both sides are most determined and confident. The men say that they are willing to submit their case to arbitrators, while the company holds that its terms are more favorable than those offered by any other street railway company in the Dominion and that the issue will be fought to this bitter end. They refuse to recognize the union and in a contract which has been formulated stipulate that the applicant must forego the right to belong to a trades union. The principal demands made by the union which have been refused by the company are recognition of the union scale of wages at 20 cents an hour for the first six months of service which is an advance of three cents an hour, 24 cents for the second six months, being an increase of three cents an hour; 26 cents for the second year being an increase of 4 cents, and 27 cents thereafter. The total loss at midnight was two cars totally destroyed, 12 cars seriously damaged, and 37 rioters languishing in jail. The mayor has issued a proclamation calling on all citizens to assist in suppressing rioters.

THE CITY FIRE BRIGADE WILL RESIGN IN A BODY

Unless City Council Accedes to Demands of the Men Edmonton will be without Fire Protection at Noon--Trouble Arose over Supercedence of Chief Wilson.

At noon to-morrow the city of Edmonton will be without a fire brigade, unless the city council calls a special meeting in the meantime and undoes a part of the work that was done at the secret meeting of a week ago.

At least this would seem to be the intention of the Edmonton Fire Brigade, as expressed at a meeting held in the hall last night to consider the action of the city council in superceding the present chief of the brigade.

There are 36 members on the rolls of the brigade and of these 35 were present. The meeting was presided over by Assistant Chief W. J. Johnson.

The secretary-treasurer opened the proceedings by explaining that the object of the meeting was to discuss the action of the city council in superceding their chief without consulting them, and after a brief discussion the following resolution was passed without dissent:

"That the action of the council in proposing the appointment of a new Fire Chief, and the relegation of the present Chief to a secondary position without first acquainting the brigade was discourteous and contrary to the by-laws governing the brigade."

"That the present Chief is fully capable of fulfilling the duties of the office, and that should he be unable to come to a satisfactory arrangement with the council the brigade tender their resignation in a body to the Council, such resignations to take effect on Saturday, the 31st inst., at noon and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the daily papers and the Commissioners. The brigade also claims the right to be recognized as an organization of citizens acting in the best interests of the city, and as such entitled to the ordinary courtesies of business by the official acknowledgment and consideration of their communications to the Council."

In talking of the matter this morning, one of the members of the brigade said that they thought the city council had taken a very high handed action. They claim that according to the by-law they must be consulted before any fire chief can be appointed or removed; that the by-law provides that the chief must be elected by the brigade and then confirmed by the council; that Chief Wilson is the choice of the brigade and that the council and the commissioners have no right to supercede him without first coming to the brigade.

The members said that they had not expected anything of the kind, and that the first intimation they had that Chief Wilson was to be superceded was when they read it in the Bulletin on Wednesday after the council meeting on Tuesday evening.

The brigade have notified the city council of their decision in the matter, which amounts practically to an ultimatum. At noon tomorrow, unless the council makes provision for fire protection, or accedes to the wishes of the brigade, the city will be without fire protection.

Speaking about the insurance phase of the case, Alfred Allan Jones, of the Alberta Agencies, Limited, who represents six board companies, stated that the companies had no power to suspend insurance already in force, although they might careen it if they chose to do so by handing back the premiums for the unexpired term, but such action was altogether imprudent. The company might also raise the rates if they considered the matter serious.

Secretary-Treasurer S. J. Kinnaird stated to-day that the city commissioners voted yesterday afternoon to R. Gregg Davidson, of Sherbrook, Quebec, offering him the position of fire chief of the city of Edmonton. The wire was sent previous to the meeting of the brigade.

BROWN IS NEW LEADER
Winnipeg, Mar. 30.—D. W. Bole, M. P. yesterday evening received the following telegram from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "I just hear of the selection of our friend Brown as leader of the party in Manitoba and beg you to convey to him my sincere congratulations."

BANQUET POSTPONED
The banquet which was to have been tendered the members of the Legislature by the members of the Edmonton Liberal Association at the Queen's Hotel to-night, has been postponed until Thursday, April 19th.

To Smoke or Not to Smoke

Is smoke to be allowed in the committee of the whole--That was the question.

The legislature had a little digression from the regular order of things yesterday afternoon. Deputy Speaker Boyle cast his eagle eye around the assemblage at a moment when the members were deeply engrossed in the work of translating and accepting the clauses of the Public Works Act and discovered that an honorable member from somewhere or another had brought his cigar in with him from the Speaker's quarters on the high side of the House.

My lady Nicotine has always been noted for her propensity to incite her victims with the virus of philosophy, and Speaker Boyle inhaled enough of the fumes to philosophize that it was not exactly proper decorum for the members to be following the precedent of Sir Walter Raleigh, who smoked in the presence of royalty.

Mr. Herbert, who is one of His Majesty's most loyal Opposition, remembered that he was still in the Opposition, and rose to remark that there was nothing in the rules so far as he knew that prevented an honorable member from smoking while the mace was under the table.

Attorney-General Crooks, who is one of the few non-smokers in the House, said that it was a matter of indifference to him whether the honorable members of the House smoked or not while they were discussing the bills in the committee of the whole, and they could smoke up for all of him.

Premier Rutherford was rather constrained to stand by the speaker. He thought that the decorum of the House should require the honorable members to do their smoking out of doors.

Mr. Rosenroff, who knows the weed and its moods, asserted that the committee of the whole meetings were rather tedious at times and a few whiffs of the Virginia narcotic might have the effect of keeping some of the members in their seats when they would otherwise go behind closed doors and take a few drags at a stogie.

Just about then some member whose memory had been refreshed by a brief interval in the speaker's den where they have Grandas and La Palmas by that the commissioners have the option the box, rose to remark that the rules of order were still in the embryonic state and that the committee had not yet reported. He proposed that he left to them to say what the habits of the honorable members should be during working hours. Some member who had not hitherto taken a part in the debate murmured "agreed" and the speaker passed on to other business.

It is quite possible that the committee will bring in an order for an engrossed and illuminated report "No Smoking" on the report of the legislative proceedings to show that the members of the House are human.

The only question of legislative importance during the day was the debate over the matter of expropriation in the public works bill. The old bill as it stood on the ordinances provided that if the government wanted a man's land and took it, that the Department of Public Works set the price at which it should be acquired and if the owner thereof wanted to go to arbitration about it had to put up a matter of ten per cent to guarantee the costs of the case, and that failing his securing from the Crown under the arbitration ten per cent more than the amount that he was offered he should pay the costs of the arbitration.

Attorney-General Crooks could not see that the provision was a just one. He pointed out that if a settler was the owner of land and the railway wanted it and that if the settler could not agree with the right-of-way agent as to the price of the land, that he had the option of going to arbitration without having to pay any ten per cent into the courts. He did not see why the same man should be deprived of the right if he were dealing in the same circumstances with the government.

Mr. Cushing, whose bill it was, said that the ten per cent was to prevent what very frequently occurred with the government--parties claiming more than they were justly entitled from the department and involving a lawsuit, to say nothing of the inconvenience. In their claims were just they would have no difficulty in getting judgment and the ten per cent would then be returned to them.

John R. Boyle vacated the chair to remark that he did not think the provision a fair one. He said that a man of his knowledge had owned a farm along a water supply and that a road was run through his farm which cut the water supply off from the rest of the farm and thereby made the property far less valuable, yet the amount offered him was on the basis of prairie land and the circumstances of the water supply was not taken into account at all. There was an instance he said in which the settler had a legitimate case, and yet he had to put up the amount he claimed as the value of his land before he could take action to recover it. There were cases in which the settler might not have the money, but the matter was still under debate when the house closed.

Rousing Meeting at Red Deer

Red Deer, Mar. 30.—Last night a rousing Liberal meeting was held here in Alexandria hall in the interests of Dr. McIntyre, the Liberal candidate for Strathcona constituency for the House of Commons. G. W. Smith, Esq., president of the Red Deer Liberal Association, occupied the chair, and gave the Strathcona constituency for the House of Commons. G. W. Smith, Esq., president of the Red Deer Liberal Association, occupied the chair, and gave the Strathcona constituency for the House of Commons. G. W. Smith, Esq., president of the Red Deer Liberal Association, occupied the chair, and gave the Strathcona constituency for the House of Commons.

foundation, and his effort fell flat. He was followed by John T. Moore, M. P., who dealt in his own vigorous manner with the political situation and pointed out the great benefit enjoyed by the west under Liberal rule and the folly of interfering with the wise and able policy whereby Alberta is making such wonderful progress. Mr. Moore was frequently interrupted with applause and was given an ovation on resuming his seat. It was a splendid meeting that augurs well for McIntyre and was brought to a close with three cheers for the King, for Dr. McIntyre for the chairman and Mr. Moore. Afterwards a successful organization meeting was held and Red Deer will no doubt give a good account of itself.

A STOCK COMMISSIONER SHOULD BE APPOINTED

Agricultural Committee of the Legislature Met Last Night and Heard Mr. C. W. Peterson on the Beef Situation

"Resolved, That in the opinion of this committee it would be wise to appoint a fat stock commissioner to find ways and means whereby the farmer would get the best prices for his cattle."

This was the resolution adopted at the meeting of the agricultural committee of the government held in the office of the executive council last night, and it may be a meeting of great importance and consequences to the stock growers of Alberta.

In opening the meeting Hon. W. T. Finlay, minister of agriculture, said that at the last meeting the committee had decided that they must have outside information in order to be able to come to sound conclusions with regard to the beef industry, and for this reason they had invited Mr. Peterson, president of the Stockgrowers' Association, to come before them and give them the benefit of whatever information he possessed with regard to the industry. It was, Mr. Finlay admitted, a big question, and one which had to be approached with the greatest of caution. He introduced the speaker.

Mr. Peterson briefly thanked the Minister of Agriculture and the committee for having asked him to appear before them and give evidence. He said it was always a healthy sign when the department was willing to take an interest in the grievances and troubles of the people and he thought that the department in Alberta was the first provincial department of agriculture to be more than a figurehead.

Coming into the question in hand he said that in 1902 the cattle business was in a very prosperous condition. Prices were high and the farmers were satisfied. But the halcyon days of 1902 had departed.

Conditions are changing rapidly for the stockgrower in this country. In the early days when the range was large and there was plenty of grass it was comparatively easy matter to make both ends meet but now the incoming settler has by crowding the range added to the expense of raising cattle and with prices on the decline the lot of the cattle grower is not a particularly happy one.

Prices broke on the markets of the world in 1904, and since that time there has been a large decline, but there is not now any relation between the price paid for cattle here in Alberta and the price which the carcasses of the same cattle bring in the shape of beef.

It was an open secret in this country that the cattle trade is controlled by one or two firms. P. Burns and Co. controlled the British Columbia market for beef and they were the only firm buying cattle for shipment there. Hard times had been said about the Burns Company. He was making no charges, but it was a reasonable deduction that as the market was controlled by the only firm buying at the source of supply that the prices are dictated by the firm of P. Burns & Co.

As to whether the farmers are getting all their cattle are worth, that, he said, was a matter which it was very hard to arrive at. Comparisons are frequently made between the Alberta price paid to the farmer and the price quoted in the Union Stock Yards in Chicago, but the comparison was by no means a fair one. Usually the highest price quoted in Chicago was compared with the lowest price paid in Alberta.

FROM STRATHCONA

The Bulletin's Daily Budget From the Sister Town

Strathcona, March 29.—Messrs. M. Hens, J. W. Masters and Harry Osterhout and families, are here at the Royal. They are old acquaintances of Mr. W. W. Gould of the Educational Department, Edmonton, and have come up from Wooler, Ont., with the object of taking up land and settling in Northern Alberta.

Mr. Wm. Lawrie came to town from York County, Ont., last Saturday. He is up with a view of taking up a homestead and also buying land in Northern Alberta.

Mr. J. T. Moore, M. P. P., left town on the 4 p.m. train for the south. We understand Mr. Moore will do some campaigning for his friend, Dr. W. McIntyre, in the approaching Dominion constituency of Strathcona.

Mr. Johnson has taken the place of Mr. Scanlan on the Galner staff, while Mr. Scanlan is travelling representative of the Edmonton Brewery Co.

Mr. Walters is in town today. He reports about 150,000 logs cut this season, which, he expects, will total up to about thirteen million feet. This is a good showing for the season when snow has been so scarce.

The Hon. Senator Talbot and Dr. McIntyre, the Liberal candidate for the Dominion constituency of Strathcona, went south this morning over the C. & E. for Wetsaskwin, to attend the nomination of candidates to contest the vacant seat.

On all that R. A. Peterson will vacate the Royal Hotel, March 31, 1906, and that the management will pass again to the owner, J. J. McNeil. Mr. Peterson has managed with success the cuisine department for several months. He leaves town for his homestead down the C. N. R.

Messrs. Bishop and Crawford have gone out of partnership in the livery business, as their lease expires on March 31. It is reported that I. Coulson, formerly Mr. Crawford's partner, who has of late been handling machinery, will put in a stock of horses and go into business at the old stand.

Mr. James McKernan postmaster at Athabasca Landing, and brother of Mr. R. McKernan of this town, left here today for Beaver Lake, where he has a large ranch. He expects to return to the Landing next week.

Lumber is being laid down on Macdonald avenue nearly opposite the town hall on Mr. H. Wilson's property. Reports say that Mr. Wilson will build a store on his lot.

The Bank of Commerce has transferred its safe and other bank effects to Mayor Sheppard's new building near the Dominion Hotel and will transact business there tomorrow.

It is reported that J. A. Connelly & Co., real estate agents, have purchased a five-acre block about three-quarters of a mile from the southern boundary of the town limits from Mr. H. Wilson. The consideration said to be $450 and the land will be laid out as a cemetery for the R. C. church here.

We understand that Connelly & Co., real estate agents, have received large sums of money from eastern capitalists for investment here.

The Galician at Home

(E. W. Thomson.)

Galician farmsteads all through this western country are still mostly very humble. The usual dwelling consists of a log hut square or oblong, about eight feet high. It is often whitewashed. When this whiteness is not present the structure of poplar being weathered fits so well the prairie dun and yellow and brown as to seem grown from ground. Whitewashed or weathered, the logs are invariably surmounted by a high pitched roof of thatch, hay colored, and with a central summit. The thatch is from twelve to eighteen inches deep. It is often secured by poles, which cross at top, coming from either side slope, and adds picturesque to the already picturesque. The chimney is in the summit of the roof, and is of small logs, plastered with mud, and often roofed with a thatch of the same material.

Thatch lasts about twenty-five years. Here it will probably survive the substructure of poplar, if before that happens the Galicians who are bent on transforming themselves into Canadians except in creed, do not put up the hideous, usual convenient, square-built, under-ventilated frame house of the ruler, rural Ontario and Saskatchewan. A Galician house appears to belong to the ground, the wild, beautiful woodland and the rosebud prairie. The frame house of other settlers might be burned down with artistic advantage, but the Galician thatch is reported very buggy.

The Galician house has often a board floor, but often one of earth. It is frequently of but one room. The main bed stands in one corner and piled on it are the big feather cushions and coverlets that serve for more beds on the floor. In summer the cook stoves outside. At other times it warms and cooks at once. There are always bright, sacred pictures on the walls. One regrets to see that the people incline to take a sort of pride in possessing that convenient and abominable utensil, the iron stove. It is ugly, unsanitary, costly, and plays hob with ventilation, burning the air in winter when the houses are chinked up as close as can be. They usually have baked earth or mud ovens, whitewashed inside the domicile. Galicians all know how to build the earthen or brick Russian stove, an angelic invention, which generally warms the air, and keeps it uniformly at a whole-some heat. If prohibitory import and exercise duties could be put on the manufacture of iron stoves the Galicians, Doukhobors and other Slav immigrants would not only stick to their native earthen ovens, but teach all the other people how to make and operate these contrivances. The Galician is "the man with the axe." Give him that, and woodland, hay or straw, and black bread and liberty, then he can build a house, make a wagon, furnish himself with a sleigh, and even create tools for cultivating the ground. He remembers, because he has lately ceased to practice, all the peasant agricultural arts which English speakers have long forgotten. He is a thoroughly self-supporting man with next to nothing, and yet keen to take advantage of every sort of invention and machine. There is not a better pioneer settler in America. It should have been said earlier that his stable is apart from his house, built low and thatched rudely, not on the high-pitched plan. He stacks his grain well, and illic to have all his grain ready to thresh near his house, where he can easily delight his eyes with so much visible wealth.

WORKMEN OPOSE DOUMA

St. Petersburg, Mar. 29 - The primary voting for delegates to represent the workmen in the final election for members of the Douma demonstrated that the state-controlled factories throughout the country are the most active centres of the revolutionary propaganda. The employees are against using their votes and are openly hostile to the Douma.

The men in the Oubouchoff Ordnance Foundry, near St. Petersburg, where twelve thousand hands are employed under the direction of the Minister of War, refuse to choose electors.

The workmen at the government's principle cartridge factory at Toula refused to choose any of the five delegates allowed under the electoral law. The workmen in the Imperial Railway work shops, at Yanova and Vonstersmak, also refused to participate in the election. The employees in several of the leading independent industrial enterprises adopted the same attitude. The men in Stienem and Halsek's electrical works here explained their refusal by saying that as soon as they had canvassed the claims of any candidate he disappeared from the works and eventually was obliged to quit the locality. There are numerous reports of such interference by the political police throughout the country. The elector chosen by the peasants of Sin-ferpol is a school teacher. He was imprisoned on a political charge immediately he was elected. The peasants refused to elect another delegate. An indignant minority of the peasants participated in the elections in the province. In the Ustuj na district of Nijal Novgorod only one thousand received election notices, although eight thousand were entitled to vote. A petition for an election has been prepared in this district. When the urban workmen voted, as in factories in St. Peter-burg and Moscow, the constitutional Democrats almost invariably elected their candidate. When the preliminary election passed off without incident and attracted no attention.

The agitation among the workmen's organizations involves a bold plan on the part of social democrats, revolutionists and other radical elements to send delegates elected secretly to a meeting to be called at some place in Finland early in April, at which an ultimate plan of operations will be decided upon.

A division of sentiment exists among the leaders. Some of them favor calling a strike in the middle of April for the purpose of forcing the lower House of Parliament to demand the immediate convocation of a constituent assembly on the basis of universal suffrage, but the more audacious aim at setting up a provisional government. They believe the time is ripe to organize a general uprising, and that if successful, representatives could boldly contest the authority of the government.

The authorities here have already gotten wind of a possibility of a general strike, and M. Durnova, the Minister of the Interior has sent circulars to the Governor-General and Governors advising them of the affairs, and instructing all of them to take the necessary measures to meet the movement.

Count Wit's project to permit the peasant banks to issue five per cent.

bonds for the purchase of lands from the proprietors and sell it to the peasants has been adopted by the Council of the Empire. The majority of estates are heavily mortgaged to the nobles and private banks, with foreign connections and the bonds will be used to satisfy the mortgages.

DELAYING STRATHCONA'S RE-PRESENTATION

The Strathcona Conservatives have decided to contest the bye-election in that constituency, and yesterday nominated Dr. Crang of Strathcona as their candidate. In so doing they have made necessary the holding of an election and have in consequence delayed for over two weeks the representation of their constituency in the House of Commons.
Had the Liberal nominee, who was first in the field, and whose election is conceded by his opponents, been returned by acclamation that gentleman might have been now on his way to Ottawa to advocate the interests of his constituency, whereas an election having been rendered necessary by the nomination of a Conservative candidate, the constituency during the coming fortnight, (polling takes place on Thursday of next week. Supposing the result to be decisive enough to warrant one candidate in assuming himself elected on the evening of polling day, such candidate cannot reach the capital earlier than ten days from to-day, and in any event he will have no official standing in the House until the declaration of the returning officer.
This declaration can be made only after the returns have been received from every poll in the riding, and owing to the extent and character of the Strathcona constituency it has been found impossible to make the declaration earlier than April 17th.

But the Conservatives of the Strathcona constituency are on record as favoring an even longer delay in filling the vacancy in that constituency. At the convention held at Red Deer on Tuesday a resolution was passed considering the Federal Government for bringing on the bye-election at such an early date as to prevent a protracted campaign. The conclusion, therefore, is that the opposition in the Strathcona constituency consider it a matter of less consequence that their district be represented at Ottawa than that the opportunity be lost for indulging in a protracted bye-election campaign, and toward securing such campaign at the sacrifice of representation they have done what they could.

Under the circumstances of the hour the question of the duration of the campaign at the sacrifice of representation the town and district of Strathcona compared to that of having representation in the House of Commons at the earliest possible date. The issues of the campaign are and must be those which were thoroughly thrashed out in the last general election and there is no reason to suppose that the electors have changed or would change their attitude toward these questions in obedience to the representations of the opposition. A brief campaign is therefore quite as effective in testing the opinion of the electorate on the questions of federal policy as a protracted struggle. But in the meantime the town of Strathcona and the immediately tributary country is interested in a question which is felt to be of the most vital consequence to both the town and country—the location of the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific.
The settlement of this question is expected to be made at an early date, and it is of first consequence to Strath-cona's case that the member from that district be in Ottawa in time to represent her interests in the matter. If such should not be found impossible the credit will lie at the doors of the Conservatives of that riding, who by forcing an election have delayed the election of such representative at a time when delay may be dangerous.

THE CITY COUNCIL AND PUBLI-CITY

The charge of the Bulletin against the secretary-treasurer of the city is that that official violated the city charter, and that the point at issue is the fact of such violation, not the circumstances in which it originated nor the possible motives from which it sprang.
When the question came up on Tuesday evening, however, the occasion was taken by several members of the council to put themselves on record on the general subject of publicity in civic affairs, and while this was not the matter for settlement, it may be worthwhile to note the attitudes of the members toward this subject and the reasons advanced for such attitudes.

Mayor May admits having conferred with the secretary, and decided that it was "not wise that the proceedings of the meeting should be made known to the public." Considering the nature of such "proceedings" the reticence of His Worship is quite comprehensible.

Alderman Bellamy was surprised that the proceedings of a committee of the whole should be made public in any manner. Ald. Bellamy should refresh his memory. He was a member of the city council a year since, when the representative of the Bulletin was regularly present at, and reported at length the proceedings of such meeting. As to some one present at the Friday evening meeting having "divulged" the information of proceedings it does not appear to have occurred to Ald. Bellamy as an anomalous circumstance that the public press is accused of having to rely for information regarding a city council meeting on the willingness of some alderman or official to "give away" such information. Some such condition of affairs obtains in St.

Petersburg, but not with the enthusiastic approval of the public.

Ald. Latta thought that if the charter did not permit secret sessions of the committee of the whole, it should be amended to allow such and recollected several meetings in which the interests of the city might have been prejudiced by the report of the proceedings being made public. Quite probably, and we have distinct recollection of several occasions when the interests of the city would have been prejudiced by the report of such proceedings not being made public. Also a distinct recollection of a meeting recently held in which the interests of the city were prejudiced by the report of the proceedings being withheld from publication.

The assumption of Aldermen who favor a measure of secrecy in the management of civic affairs appears to be that while the sessions of the city council sitting as a council are open to the public, the sessions of the council sitting as a committee of the whole are or may be private. Such assumption is founded on an altogether mistaken notion of the purposes of a "committee of the whole." The practice of meeting in this manner was adopted by legislative bodies not for the purpose of shrouding their doings in secrecy but for the purpose of securing greater freedom of discussion than is permitted by the rules of parliamentary debate. In such debate a member may speak only once on the question in hand; in committee he may speak more than once. The result is that whereas a debate in ordinary session is a succession of speeches presenting divergent views, a debate in committee is a kind of free and easy discussion in which the restrictions are relaxed and details are considered in the freest and most general manner.

But sessions of the committee of the whole are quite as public as other sessions of such bodies and the Legislature which presumed to attempt to exclude the representatives of the press from such sessions would draw upon itself the merited censure of the public. Why should the city council desire what a Parliament dare not propose?

This mistaken notion of the nature and privileges of sessions as "committee of the whole" was entertained by the city council of 1905, but was abandoned early in the year owing largely to the persistent stand for publicity made by Ald. Griesbach and Ald. Doyle.
That the two members of the council who belonged to the legal profession opposed the holding of secret meetings was taken as significant that from a legal standpoint such meetings were not allowable. Ald. Griesbach went to the root of the matter on Tuesday evening by asking whether the council had power to adopt rules of order excluding the public or the press from committee meetings, and the city solicitor did not venture an opinion that the council had such power. This reticence should suggest to the aldermen that they are on dangerous legal ground as well as in violation of the admitted practice of legislative bodies.

"THE DAY OF THE FARMER"

It is not often that the Bulletin has the pleasure of quoting without adverse comment the remarks of the organ of the Canadian Manufacturers Association. The rarity of the experience adds to the satisfaction with which we reproduce the following article which appeared recently in Industrial Canada under the heading "The day of the Farmer." Due notice should be taken however that Industrial Canada does not mention the fact of this happy condition of affairs having been produced without the so-called "adequate" tariff, and also of the concluding injunction to the manufacturer that in "the day of the farmer" it behooves him to give the market his "closest attention," which "attention" we presume to suggest will be directed toward another campaign for forcing or persuading the prosperous farmer to break up the conditions which have made his "day" what it is by prohibiting himself from buying from anyone but the Canadian manufacturer.

"Canada is and always will be a great agricultural country. Her mines may become exhausted, her great water-ways may be denuded of their forest growth, her fisheries are year by year being perpetuated with increasing difficulty, but her soil will be perennially productive. Farm property is undoubtedly her greatest and most permanent asset. It is the farm that builds her railway and steamship lines, her tel-graph and telephone lines. Without the farmer Canada's trade and commerce would be as a house built upon sand. He is the very foundation stone of our social economy. His barns are the measure of the country's prosperity.

Little wonder, therefore, that the manufacturer, the jobber and the merchant are solicitous for his welfare!
Little wonder that they view with deep satisfaction the present commercial outlook!

"Never was the farmer so prosperous as he is to-day. Evidences of his thrift abound on every hand. The building of new fences, larger and better barns, more substantial and more comfortable houses, has come to be the merest commonplace. Every concession has its quota of prize-winning stock. The biggest factories we have in Canada are those which supply the farmer with labor-saving machinery. He has studied, he has gone to school, and has learned to secure the best results by the application of scientific principles to farming. His dress, the home comforts with which he has surrounded himself, his mild indulgence in the luxuries of life, and the education he is giving his sons and daughters, all attest his worth and independence.

"But figures are sometimes more eloquent than words. The last census tells the story of ten years' growth in farm products:— Grains 175,545,724 bu. 282,511,903 bu.
Roots 103,170,493 " 131,438,277 " Hay " 7,693,733 tons 9,104,053 tons "According to the same authority the total value of agricultural products in the census year was $363,126,384, and represented a profit of 20.32 per cent. on the total investment! And after feeding five and a half million Canadians the farmer still had $78,630,966 worth of produce, or nearly 20 per cent. of his output, left for export.

Canada's New Trans-Continental Rail Road

(From "Canada")

How did people reach the Canadian North West before the days of railways? As a matter of fact few desired to go there, for it was but a stamping-ground for the Indian and buffalo. The Hudson's Bay Company's officials who were engaged in the fur trade, took ship from Glasgow and entered by way of Hudson's Bay. French Canadians, nuns and missionaries went by canoe from Montreal to the Ottawa River and thence through the Great Lakes to Fort William at the head of Lake Superior; from there they followed the river, traversing many portages till they arrived at St. Boniface, opposite the site of the present city of Winnipeg. Those were the heroic days of the voyageur.

During the troubles between the rival fur companies a remarkable feat was performed by a French-Canadian voyageur and hunter, Jean Baptiste LaJolonde, who had been "settled" in the French Parishes on the Red River, one of them being a member of the Manitoba Legislature. In the fall of 1815 he was selected to carry letters to Lord Selkirk, then in Montreal, apprising him of what was going on and asking assistance. LaJolonde left St. Boniface on November 1st. His instructions were to make a detour round Lake Superior to avoid the trading posts of the North-West Company. He had snowshoes, stores and a mukluk — nothing more, not even a compass. He passed by Sault Ste. Marie and thence by Detroit to Montreal, which he reached on December 25, having travelled 1,836 miles through a wilderness of prairie and forest in severe winter weather. Abbe Dugas, of St. Boniface has written a detailed account of this famous exploit. Now one can go from the Red River to Montreal by rail in forty-eight hours.

There are persons still living, who recollect when all the flour consumed in Manitoba was imported from England via Hudson's Bay. The cost laid down at Fort Garry, (Winnipeg) was $28 per bag. Red River carts, drawn by oxen conveyed merchandise from Fort Garry to Edmonton in 55 days, the rate being $5.50 per 100 lbs. The first wheat shipped from Manitoba was placed on a flat boat on the Red River and towed across the international boundary to a point on the Northern Pacific Railway, which carried it to Duluth. The cost of getting it to Montreal was 42 cents per bushel, which, as it was soft wheat left nothing for the shipper. All this has changed. Manitoba, Alberta, and Saskatchewan now contain close on a million people, and immigrants are pouring in at the rate of 150,000 a year. In 1905 these three provinces raised 89 million bushels of wheat for export, over and above that retained for seed, and home consumption, together with 100,000 head of cattle and an enormous quantity of flour and dairy products.

The first American railway to reach the Pacific coast was chartered in 1862. The civil war was raging, and it was necessary to link California to the East. The line began at the Missouri River and was completed in 1869; the mileage was 1,800, of which over 1,000 miles was built by the Union and the remainder by the Central Pacific. It was therefore, not a transcontinental railway in the true sense. The Grand Trunk Pacific will be transcontinental, that is to say, its rails will extend from one ocean to the other. Work on this stupendous undertaking has already commenced. Three months ago the company let contracts for Portage La Prairie westward towards Edmonton on the main line, and also started operations on a branch from Fort William to Lake Superior Junction, where it will connect with the Government built portion of the railway. As the project came from the hands of Parliament, the road was run Montreal, in New Brunswick, by way of Quebec and Winnipeg to the Pacific. The Government is to build from Montreal to Winnipeg, the company paying three per cent. on cost of construction; and the company from Winnipeg to the Pacific, the Government aiding it with a guarantee of bonds. But for the present, at any rate, the letting of the Montreal, Quebec portion has been postponed, and Quebec made the initial point. The company will complete the Fort William branch and finish the road from Winnipeg to Edmonton in time to haul its share of the crop of 1907. It will have the shortest and best line between Winnipeg and Edmonton, as the following table of distances shows:

WINNIPEG TO EDMONTON miles Grand Trunk Pacific ..... 796 Canadian Northern ..... 825 Canadian Pacific ..... 1,024

On no part of the road from Quebec to Montreal to the Pacific Ocean will the grades exceed four-tenths per cent., or 22 feet to the mile. Other lines crossing the Rocky Mountains have to face gradients as high as 200 feet to the mile. The Grand Trunk Pacific will also start with a first-class road bed, and a route almost as direct as the crow flies. These are the essential conditions of cheap, rapid and profitable transportation. Formerly railways on this continent resorted to heavy gradients and curvature with the idea of saving money at the outset; but in the end had to expend enormous sums, often as much as the first construction, in order to "keep up with the procession." The company has until 1911 to complete the section through the Rockies to the Pacific coast. Engineers are selecting a pass through the mountains, an important task, since a pass which looks favorable from one side may land you in difficulties on the other.

It has been said that the Government will build to Winnipeg. It will do so on certain conditions, one of which is that the specifications shall be submitted to the Grand Trunk Pacific Company, and that the work itself shall be subject to the joint supervision, inspection and acceptance of the company's engineer and the Government's engineer, who, if they should disagree, are to call in a third arbitrator. This makes it certain that the company, which has to pay interest on cost, will get full value for its money, that the road will be built well and economically. In former times railways built by the Government invariably cost a great deal more than was necessary, and sometimes the route was determined by political considerations. Nothing of this sort is possible in the case of the Government-built section of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

The country between Quebec and Winnipeg is for the most part covered with valuable timber, spruce and white pine, and contains great mineral wealth. The rich vein of silver recently discovered at Cobalt, near Lake Timiskaming, extends north to Lake Abitibi. Petroleum has been found near Abitibi, and nickel, copper and mica abound to the east and west of it. There are immense tracts along the route suitable for farming, and the rivers descending from the Height of Land furnish water power for milling, lumbering and other industries. From Winnipeg to Edmonton the road will traverse the garden of the North-west. The rolling prairie of deep black loam is well watered; there is plenty of soft wood, and a first-rate lignite is found almost everywhere west of the Touchwood Hills. No part of the North-west grows larger crops of wheat, or is better adapted for mixed farming, which after all, is the safest and most profitable system of agriculture. Beyond Edmonton the Grand Trunk Pacific will skirt the southern dip of the Peace River Valley, which contains 150,000,000 acres—about twice the area of the United Kingdom—capable of producing wheat and cattle. Flour from that fertile territory will be carried to the Pacific terminus, 500 miles distant, and shipped to China and Japan.

Entering British Columbia, no matter by which of the four available passes, the road will penetrate the gold belt of Omecoma and the coal fields that extend for miles on each side of the Upper Fraser and Skeena rivers. Hitherto, mining in those parts has been prosecuted at a disadvantage owing to the heavy cost of supplies; but now that the railway is coming, the country swarms with prospectors, who bear out what the Hudson's Bay Company's officers reported years ago, that Northern British Columbia is even richer in minerals than Southern.

The cost of the main line from Quebec to the Pacific will be about 100,000,000 dollars. The company will have ample means for constructing and equipping its portion. The first issue of $12,000,000 of bonds through the Rothschilds and Speyer and Co. of London, was applied for ten times over. It will place steamships on both oceans and hotels along the main line for the accommodation of tourists, sportsmen and those who delight in mountain climbing. Its traffic with China and Japan is bound to be heavy from the start, the distance to those countries from its Pacific terminus being shorter by two days' sail than from any other port Canadian or American, on that littoral.

The connection of the Grand Trunk Pacific with the Grand Trunk proper will be of much advantage to both, as well as to the Canadian North-west and to the new settlements already springing up between Quebec and Winnipeg. The Grand Trunk, with 4,800 miles of road, serves all the principal centres of Canada from Quebec to Windsor, including Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, etc.; in addition to which it runs to Chicago, Detroit, Toledo, Portland and other American cities. The farmer and storekeeper on the Grand Trunk Pacific will be brought into direct connection with all these markets, and placed in a position to make the most of what he sells, and to procure what he buys on the most advantageous terms. Besides the branch to Fort William, the company will have branches to Calgary, Regina, Prince Albert and other points in the West; and no doubt in course of time, it will build into Montreal and Ottawa and down to North Bay, where its existing lines connect with Toronto. The recent purchase of the Canada Atlantic gives it a commanding position on the Great Lakes.

Canadians of all classes and all shades of politics are doing what they can to encourage this great enterprise. The Ontario Government has given a valuable land grant to the Fort William branch, and other Provincial Governments are equally well disposed. Everyone feels that the construction of the road is a step of profound importance in the material development of Canada; that it means not only the opening of new regions in the West and North, but the closer union of that new Canada with the Canada of the older Province, and the beginning of a wonderful future for all concerned.

HOUSE PASSES

SEVERAL BILLS

Four Bills Passed Their Final Reading This Morning and are Ready for the Governor's Assent

The first act to be given its third reading and finally passed by the Legislature today was Bill No. 3, entitled, "An Act Respecting Coroners." The bill itself is a composite production, being what was considered the best that could be borrowed from the coroners' acts of the other provinces, mostly from B. C. and Ontario. It was quickly followed under the vice by No. 4, an Act respecting the public service, No. 4, an act respecting the statutes, No. 5, an act respecting the department of the Attorney-General. These four bills were finished this morning, and are ready to go on the statute books of the province.

A lot of bills were given their first reading in a very short time. Mr. Finlay introduced a bill respecting the inspection of hides and stock; Mr. Cross introduced a bill to consolidate and amend the acts respecting the real property in the province of Alberta; John R. Boyle, acting for John T. Moore who was out of the House to-day, called for the first reading of the bill respecting the drugists and chemists, the purpose of which is to form an association here the same as in other provinces.

Mr. McKenzie asked for the first reading of the bill to incorporate the Empire Club, which was granted.

C. A. Stuart brought in the bill respecting the medical profession, which is to serve the same purpose for the medical practitioners as the druggists' bill does for them, and the bill was read a first time.

The amendment to the Edmonton city charter also passed the first reading.

The bill taken up in the House this morning was Bill No. 12, for second reading, "An Act Respecting an Act to Amend Chap. 24 of the Ordinances of the Northwest Territories, 1903, entitled, "An Ordinance Respecting Local Improvement Districts."

The amendment to sub-section 1 of Section 18 met with considerable opposition in the form in which it was presented. The effect of the clause was to allow the owner and tenant of a piece of farm land to vote if they both resided in the district. It was changed to mean that when the tenant was on the voters list and the taxes had been paid, the tenant had the sole right to vote.

Mr. McCauley, of Vermilion, then undertook to move an amendment to Section three of the Ordinance, but after some discussion as to whether or not an amendment could be introduced in committee of the whole, the deputy-speaker ruled that they were discussing the amendment to the ordinance, not the ordinance itself, and the only matter before the House was what was contained in the amendment.

The amendment which Mr. McCauley wanted was one which would give the department to vary the rates of local improvement districts, so that any geographical or other condition could be met.

Mr. Cushing said that they were anxious to have the suggestions of the members and that after the amendments in hand were disposed of it would be Mr. McCauley's privilege to bring in any amendments he chose.

Another amendment changes the day of election in local improvement districts from the second Monday in January to the second Saturday.

Section 5 makes it necessary to hold 4 meetings a year, instead of 2, as provided for before.

CRUSHED BY A TRAIN.

Calgary Alberta: While walking the C. P. R. track at 3.25 this morning, C. P. R. special Officer Fisher made a most ghastly find about a hundred yards east of the First street crossing.

He first found a bundle of clothing and a few feet further on he found the body of a man about 50 years of age, lying between the rails. Both legs were cut off just above the knees and the right arm was severed at the shoulder. The left hand was cut off at the wrist.

The body and head are not mutilated very much. The body was still warm when found, but death must have been instantaneous.

The unfortunate was most probably hit and killed by the first section of train No. 1 which arrived at the station at 3.20 a.m.

No letters could be found at the time of going to press, but on the fly-leaf of a Bible found in the bundle of clothing, was written with a lead pencil the name W. A. Enycart, which was probably the unfortunate's name.

He was dressed in a rough suit of workman's clothes, and in the bundle were some magazines, underclothes, a pair of overalls, and a Bible.

THREE KILLED IN A C. P. R. WRECK

Freight Collided With a Snow Plow With Fatal Consequences

Fort William, Mar. 30.—Two accidents to trains occurred on the east end of the C.P.R. early yesterday morning, one with fatal results and the other with damage to a passenger coach in which the passengers escaped with a shaking up. The first occurred east of Chapleau, where a freight train running thirty miles an hour ran into a snow plow. Four section men were sleeping in the caboose at the time. Three were killed instantly and one received injuries from which he will not recover.

The other accident occurred at Sudbury. A train composed of baggage and immigrant cars ran into a home-seeking train.

WRECK ON THE C.N.R.
Winnipeg, Mar. 30.—One car was hurled into the river, three others were reduced to matchwood and a portion of the superstructure of the Canadian Northern bridge over the Red River is twisted almost beyond recognition as the result of a collision at noon yesterday between a yard train and a freight. There were no fatalities, but the damage to property will amount to many thousands of dollars. Engineer Cowley was bringing in a freight from Rainy River and was travelling at considerable speed when he approached the bridge to successfully mount the incline. Just at that time a yard engine was crossing the river ahead of him and was going very slowly. Cowley paid little attention to the cars before him, but looked at the semaphores. By some error it signalled "Go ahead" and the freight did so. They plunged into the tail end of the shunters' quotas of cars. One span of the bridge was covered with the wreckage and twisted iron work projected from every side. The top girder has sagged and the supporters gave way.

THE STOCK COMMISSIONERS.

The Chicago price in that case was for corn fed and thoroughly finished steers. The comparison was not just, and in order to come to sound conclusions it was necessary to treat the whole thing in a judicial manner.

In comparing the Alberta price with the Chicago price, class for class, it must be remembered that on the Chicago market the freight has already been paid for the steer from Montana or Texas to the Chicago market, while the Alberta price is for the steer on the average, costs about $8 per head from Montana points to the Chicago market.

Mr. Peterson had the Chicago prices for several months, and he made some very interesting comparisons. The average price of Texas steers for the year 1905 was $15.00 per hundred. Deduct 85 cents from that as the cost of freight and the price is not much higher than the Calgary price. From the other side, however, the comparison was by no means fair to the farmer and stock grower in Alberta, to compare Calgary with the Chicago market. The price in Chicago, as all know, is dictated by a gigantic trust. There is no competition, and the seller is as absolutely at the mercy of the buyer as he would be if all the beef packers in the country were doing business under one name. In the early days of the beef packing industry the seller was courted by the buyers, and the price that was offered was a competitive price at least. Nowadays the bidding was of a most perfunctory order. The Swift, Nelson, Morris, Armour and Cudahy men all bid the same, and if the cattle grower wanted to follow his cattle into the pens he would see them divided into five lots and distributed among the five different packing houses, although they were supposed to have been bought in competition.

The meat packing industry, said Mr. Peterson, is the highest organized industry in the world.

Ottawa Items

Ottawa, Mar. 28.—Before the House adjourned this morning, Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition expressed a brief welcome to Prince Arthur of Connaught, who has arrived safely in Canada, returning from an Imperial mission to Japan. Mr. Borden said the Prince would find here a people proud of the extent and the resources of the Dominion and inspired by firm determination to develop its resources to the utmost. Inspired also by the high hope of the position and influence which the country will attain to as one of the great sister nations of the Empire. He would receive loyal hearty welcome from all citizens and the speaker was sure that when he leaves our shores he will carry with him sincere feelings of respect and affection for His Gracious Majesty who has done so much since ascending the Throne to inspire sentiments of devotion among all citizens of the country and of the Empire.

Hon. Wm. Patterson, who was leading the House, said that he had not previously heard the announcement of the Prince's arrival, but was glad to know that His Highness had landed safely. "I cannot choose words," he said "to better express my sentiments at this time than to fully concur with the words spoken by the leader of the Opposition in welcome to His Highness."

He will also visit the Edmonton lodge during the week, but not in an official capacity. He will institute a new lodge at Didsbury on Friday, April 6th.

—The Strathcona hockey boys gave a dance in Ross Hall last evening. Splendid music was provided by the Richardson orchestra. About sixty couples were in attendance. The hall was artistically decorated with hockey sticks and ribbons. Lunch was served at midnight. A number of Edmonton people were in attendance and speak highly of the efforts of their hosts to entertain their guests.

Mr. Richardson is proprietor of large flour mills at Grand Valley, and is a pioneer of Dufferin County, having been a member of the county council for years. He came up from the east a few weeks ago to look into some milling propositions at Battleford, and came up to Edmonton over the C. N. "This is a great country," he remarked, "and if I were young I would never go back."

—The local Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, which was recently formed, are losing no time in taking up the philanthropic work which is one of the main objects of the order. The local Chapter was formed shortly after the inauguration ceremonies and as it is the rule of the Order that each Chapter have some specific object in view, the Chapter decided to raise money to purchase an ambulance and present it to the city. For this purpose they are making arrangements to give a "Ball Pour le Drapeau" in the Thistle rink on the evening of April 17th. Committees from the members of the Order have all the details in charge, and a very successful ball is anticipated. The Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire was founded in 1898, under the patronage of Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise and National Chapters have since been formed in all the British colonies and among the officers of the Order are some of the most eminent ladies of the Empire. It aims at inculcating patriotism and high British ideals, in educating British subjects in the varied resources of their own Empire, and thereby strengthening the ties which unite its widely separated parts. It is hoped and expected that the local chapter Westward Ho, of Edmonton, will receive generous recognition and support at the hands of the public in this their first undertaking the purchasing of an ambulance, a much-needed convenience for the city of Edmonton.

BLACK HAND'S HORRIBLE CRIME.

Minneapolis, March 29.—The bloodiest crime ever reported in the Northwest was enacted here yesterday. Six Bulgarian laborers were stabbed to death in a fight with six of their countrymen at 243 Tenth avenue. The bodies were horribly mutilated. They were slashed in an indescribable manner. The tragedy occurred in a frame-shanty owned by H. Mangusson, country produce peddler. He rented the shack to nine laborers, who were gone most of the day, but were together every evening. It is believed the men constituted the Black Hand organization. Three victims were found in Minneapolis, and the gang evidently found other men, for nine returned with the three others. Tuesday evening was spent quietly. At midnight the fight started and lasted but a few minutes. This morning, when the police changed beats, the new officer saw six men running from the building. He broke in the door and discovered a terrible sight. In the centre of the dark dingy room lay side by side four dead bodies. Blood lay in pools all about the room. The officer ran to the street for help and when he returned he found three long black-handled knives beside the bodies. The murderers had evidently let the injured bleed to death, for the wounds were not deep, but rather long systematic slashes. Two other bodies were found in the cellar. The names of the murdered men are: Nyano Dimitri, father; Kerl Dimitri, son; Kerlan Youcho, Agni Karifli, Baikin Kapanni and Unka Kandaba.

POLICE COURT

Two charges of obtaining money under false pretences were presented before Magistrate C. H. Stuart Wade at the police court last night. The first case involved Neil Ross, of Edmonton and Arthur Edgson, of Edgson. Edgson last Friday sold a horse to Ross for $125. The horse was taken back the other day and Ross claims that it was in an unsound condition when sold him. According to Ross' story he set Edgson at Hutton's stable and together they hitched up the horse and took it for a trial run, about two miles. When they came back, Ross offered $125 for the animal, which Edgson refused. A couple of hours later Ross came back to the stable and made the offer, again saying that he would pay the expenses of the horse at the stable. Edgson took the offer, and Ross paid him $10 down and the balance at the bank the next day. Magistrate Wade adjourned the case until this afternoon, to enable the complainant to obtain counsel. Wilfrid Gariepy is appearing for the defendant.

The parties of the other case are John Bott, a Galician, and Geo. Ames, both of the city. Ames sold a horse to Bott, and Bott claims that the agreement in the transaction was that if the horse was not what it was cracked up to be, Ames was to receive it back. Bott took the horse, but when it came to driving away the horse was a sooner and wouldn't pull. Ames refused, however, to take the animal back. This case was postponed until this evening.
